Why Displaced Homemaker Centers?

In 1977, the Illinois General Assembly recognized that there is an increasing number of persons in this state, who in their middle years and having fulfilled the role of homemaker, find themselves displaced because of dissolution of marriage, death of spouse or other loss of family income.

A displaced homemaker is almost always a woman, and is generally over 35 years old. She may no longer be eligible for public assistance because her children are grown. She often lacks the job skills or work experience needed to enter the labor market readily; yet she must work to survive.

The Displaced Homemaker Assistance Act established the first multipurpose centers to assist displaced homemakers in becoming financially independent and contributing members of society. The Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs administers the program.

The primary source of funding for Illinois programs is state general revenue monies. A number of programs utilize vocational education funds, Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) funds, and local sources of revenue.

The Illinois Network for Displaced Homemakers provides referrals to women seeking assistance in finding a displaced homemaker program in their area. For more information about the programs in this brochure or to learn more about displaced homemakers call toll-free 800/252-4822.

What services are provided by Displaced Homemaker Centers?

The services offered by these displaced homemaker centers are basically the same, depending on the resources and staff available at each center. Program services usually include:

Counseling — helping the individual to develop self-esteem and a more positive identity; coping skills; assessment of skills and strengths; and setting personal goals.

Referral — helping the individual to identify within the community resources in the area of health care and nutrition, financial matters, education, and legal assistance.

Job Readiness Workshops — helping the individual to enter the job market. This is usually the major focus of displaced homemaker programs. Workshops may include remedial tutoring sessions in general subjects or basic communication skills; assessing homemaking and volunteer skills; resume writing and interviewing techniques; stress and time management; and researching the job market.

Education and Training — helping the individual to identify sources of training, financial assistance with education, completion of GED, career exploration, and development.

Job Development and Placement — helping the individual reach financial independence. This goal of displaced homemaker programs includes educating the displaced homemaker on the job search as well as selling employers on the worth of displaced homemakers. Some programs can assist individuals with starting their own businesses.

Survival Skills on the Job — helping the individual to handle crises on the job, office politics, and how to change jobs.

A Network for Displaced Homemakers

The Illinois Network for Displaced Homemakers is a statewide information and referral service for displaced homemakers and service providers. The network serves as a clearinghouse for information on existing programs and services and can provide technical assistance to agencies serving displaced homemakers. The network publishes newsletters and other materials. Information is available by calling toll-free 800/252-4822.

This brochure is a product of the Illinois Network for Displaced Homemakers and is paid for by a grant from the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs. For further information concerning DCCA funding of displaced homemaker programs contact Jill Halverson at 217/785-6036.
